Createspace, United States, 2011. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . In the early 1900 s Montana was a lure for those who wanted to start a new life. Easterners came by railroad from just about every state to strike it rich in mining, ranching, and any other business ideas they could come up with. Along with legitimate businessmen came charlatans as well, and that brings us to this story and the Adams Hotel in 1906. Lavinnya Moritz and her procurer, Paul Denali, are two of those hustlers who show up in Montana at the Adams Hotel and set off a chain reaction, which continues right up to the fight for women s rights. When Lavinnya changes her mind and lets those being deceived know about their scheme, the Adams Hotels finds itself in flames and Lavinnya finds her new life with half her body burned. Thankful for being notified by her about Paul s logging conspiracy, the owner of the Parish Ranch, Brock Parish, his Native American mother, White Cloud, and handy man Chinn Woo bring her back to the ranch to recover, changing all their lives. About hundred years later in...
