His stagecoach line is about to go under-and he stands to lose everything. The long-standing rivalry between Coop and his older half-brother, Jonathan, has been simmering since childhood. Now that Jonathan has lost his share of the business on the turn of a card, his resentment is at a boiling point. But Jonathan isn't the only one who wants to see Cooper go down. An old nemesis from the past insinuates himself into Cooper's life-and into his business-with deadly plans of his own. When Coop is nearly killed in a suspicious stagecoach accident, he realizes he's been set up. The lynch mob is just outside the door-if he survives his terrible injuries. With his pregnant wife, Regan, and her young son, Michael, in his life, Cooper's got too much to live for to give up now. But how can he beat the odds stacked against him? In a desperate bid to save everything dear to him, he faces a deadly showdown with a snowball's chance in hell of surviving. Either way, it will all end at the place he was born-Casa Grande.
